The Macpherson Letters were published in the New Orleans Era during the past year. Their unexpected, and, perhaps, undeserved popularity in the Southwest, and a very general desire on the part of the author s friends to see them in a book, are his reasons for publishing them. His observations in New Orleans led him to believe that ridicule was the most potent weapon that could be employed against the absurd Opinions and prejudices of that portion of the people of the Southwest who sympathised with the rebellion. He had, at least, the gratification of knowing that they were very generally read, not only in the army and navy, but by the people, many of whom believed, for some time, that Macpherson was an actual citizen of Madisonville, and a genuine correspondent of the Era. The blind prejudices, the profound political ignorance, the strong passions and boundless credulity of the rebels. in New Orleans, must appear incredible to those who have always lived in a free community, where freedom of speech is tolerated, and where universal education renders every one more or less familiar with passing events and the topics of the times. But those who have freely mingled with that class of Louisianians who still cling to the faith of Jeff. Davis, will not be surprised to learn that Macpherson s philosophy was so much in accordance with theirs, and that his exaggerated style of speech was so faithful a copy of secession bombast, that the great Confederate Philosopher was, for some weeks, quite a favorite with the hot-headed rebels of the Crescent City. Many of the incidents which the author attempted; to ridicule...
