Excerpt: .The court, however, may adopt or reject the report of the Commission made to it, in whole or in part, and enter such decree as the nature of the case may in its judgment require. Whenever a final decree has been entered against any corporation in any suit brought by the United States to prevent and restrain any violation of the antitrust acts, the Commission may upon its own initiative make investigation of the manner in which the decree has been or is being carried out, and upon application of the Attorney General it is its duty to make such an investigation. Under the law it must transmit a report embodying its findings and recommendations to the Attorney General, but it may also in its discretion make the report public. Upon the direction of the President or either House of Congress the Commission is empowered to investigate and report the facts relating to any alleged violation of the antitrust acts by any corporation. Upon the application of the Attorney General it may also investigate and make recommendations for the readjustment of the business of any corporation alleged to be violating the antitrust acts in order that the corporation may thereafter maintain its organization, management and conduct of business in accordance with law. The Commission is also granted very broad investigative Powers, both as to the organization, business, conduct, practices and management of corporations within its jurisdiction and also over trade conditions...
